My Sister and My Friend

*I am so grateful that you were my sister
That we journeyed through this life together
And I know it's a bond that will not end
That it will link our souls forever*

*And even though you've moved on to heaven now
My appreciation will never end
Truly, I was privileged to call you my sister
And even more blessed to call you my friend

“Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.” Psalm 116:15

Jennifer Ann Terry-Wilson was born to the late L.C. Smith and Imogene Smith on September 7, 1968 in High Point, North Carolina.

She graduated from South Park High School in Winston-Salem, North Carolina in 1987. After high school graduation, she completed the coursework required and became a Certified Nurse Assistant.

Jennifer was a former employee of K and W Cafeterias and was once a CNA at Shuler Health Care in Kernersville, North Carolina.

She was a loving wife and mom. She had a willing heart and was eager to give a helping hand to those in need. She was a great woman of God and she loved to sing with “The Terry Sisters.”

Jennifer was a faithful member of Trinity Holiness Outreach Center in High Point but she shared her love with Clifton Grove Baptist Church in Kernersville, North Carolina.

On Wednesday, August 28, 2013, Jennifer went home to live with the Lord from High Point Regional Hospital. And if you miss her singing down here, she’ll be singing up there at “that great reunion” which includes her father, L. C. Smith, who preceded her in death.

Those family members who survive and who will forever cherish precious and loving memories of Jennifer include James M. Wilson, her husband of twenty-four years; two miracle sons, Zion and Zachariah Wilson; her mother, Imogene Smith; two sisters, Iretha (Kevin Smith) Terry and Angela (Shane) Bonner; one niece; seven nephews; two great grand nephews, whom she loved dearly; fourteen aunts; five uncles and a host of cousins and friends.
