Obituary

Lethia Mae Nichols Coleman, 74, passed away on July 2, 2012 after a long and courageous battle with cancer. She was born on March 19, 1938 in Winston-Salem to the late Lethia Tucker Nichols and John Henry Nichols. She was a proud Simon G. Atkins High School alumna, Class of 1956. She also received an associate degree from ECPI before earning her undergraduate degree in Business Administration from High Point University in 1984. During Lethia's early career, she worked at Western Electric, Winston Mutual and Wachovia. However, Lethia spent the majority of her career at R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company working as a Data Security Analyst. After a brief retirement, she returned as a security consultant. Since her final retirement, Lethia worked with Old Salem Inc. in the Historic St. Phillips Church Complex as a docent sharing her love of church, heritage and history with thousands of visitors.

Lethia possessed a deep love of life, faith, knowledge and family. She enjoyed spending time with her family, reading, traveling, gardening and volunteering with her church. Lethia will be remembered for her giving spirit, smiling face and, of course, her trademark high heel pumps!

Lethia was preceded in death by her brother Herbert Nichols, her husband Harold Sylvester Coleman, and her sister-in-law Wanda Nichols.

Lethia is survived by a daughter Lequita Coleman McCullough (Marion), a son Kevey Draell Coleman (Paula); two granddaughters, Kesa Coleman Jessup (Corey) and Kevita Coleman; a brother James Nichols; and an uncle, James Edward Tucker (Jalania). Lethia also leaves behind a loving extended biological family, church family, a host of friends, and her dog Daisy.

The family would like to express their gratitude to the Derrick L. Davis Cancer Center Foundation and asks that any donations on her behalf be made to this foundation or the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center.
